Why a bottle cooler and not a deep freezer?

During summer, most beverage bottles and cans are delivered warm. To cool such bottles and cans in lesser time, you need a cooler with a heavy duty compressor that has adequate power. Normal deep freezer compressors come with a low capacity, suitable only for pre-frozen ice-creams. Also, the thermostats of these freezers are altered locally. All this makes deep freezers incompetent when it comes to faster and better cooling of beverages, especially in summer.

Why a bottle cooler and not a refrigerator?

Refrigerators are essentially designed for home applications where door openings are few. These refrigerators come with small compressors that are incapable of handling large loads. Further, they cannot maintain low temperatures during long power cuts. Bottle coolers, on the other hand have double the capacity and can save up to 50% on the power bill.
